

It depends on you!

Protest for the Future -

Theses of students from Protestant schools worldwide

In the 16th century, there were numerous grievances. In the case that for example somebody behaved, wrongly he or she could compensate his or her inappropriate behaviour by paying money instead of doing repentance or behaving differently or praying. Many people were poor. They were afraid of purgatory, wars, famines and diseases.

Martin Luther lived during this time. He was not satisfied with the contemporary life circumstances. He had a good feel for the awareness of life of his fellow men, the situation of the church and the society at that time. What he noticed he could not and would not simply accept. He was brave and drafted 95 Theses which spread out from Wittenberg worldwide, nowadays also by the internet.

Today, almost 500 years later, it's up to you - to your theses!

Walk with open eyes and ears through your everyday life. Look at your school, your church, the whole world! Be courageous and draft your protest, your ideas for a better future – your own theses:

*We protest against the fact

The Church must renew itself, because ...

...
